HONEYMOON IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

McAdoo and His Bride Arrive at Cornish Summer Capital.

Cornish, May 9.—William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, and his bride, who was Miss Eleanor H. Wilson, daughter of the President, arrived here yesterday to spend their honeymoon at Harlakenden, the summer White House.

They had come by train as far as Greenfield, Mass., where they were met by an automobile bearing a Maryland license tag. The ride along the banks of the Connecticut river was made with the bride on the front seat giving road directions and with Mr. McAdoo sitting alone behind.

Three servants preceded them here by only three hours, and the great house which had not been occupied since last fall had barely been opened when the couple entered its doors.

EXCITEMENT AT VERA CRUZ

Reported That Rebels and Federals Will Join in Attack on American Troops.

(Special to The Herald)

Intense excitement prevails here today. There is great activity on American outposts by both rebels and Federals. Important dispatches have been forwarded to Washington by General Funston and Admiral Badger. The present indications are that the American troops will be attacked by the rebels within 48 hours.

MORE TROOPS WILL BE SENT TO VERA CRUZ

GALLINGER WILL SEEK NEW TERM

Stevens Is Out for Senate
According to Reports From Washington.

Washington, May 8.—Senator Gallinger is expected to make an announcement that he will be a candidate for re-election to the senate within a week. He admitted today that he will have to make up his mind within that time whether or not he will run and his friends say that his decision already has been reached and that he will make the race on the Republican ticket.

Representative Raymond H. Stevens is about ready to announce his candidacy for the senate on the Democratic ticket, according to reports here. It is believed here that these two important announcements will be made before the end of the next week.

War Plans are Being Advanced and Reported Proximity of More Mu- nitions from Germany for Huerta Causes Grave Concern

Washington, May 8.—High tension marked the Mexican situation yesterday, both on the military and the diplomatic side. The war department was the chief center of activity and while no authoritative statement was made beyond Secretary Kierulson's formal reply that no orders for additional troop movements have been sent, it became known that the sending of additional troops to Vera Cruz was under consideration and probably would be carried out.

This step would be intended, not as an aggressive measure, but as a precautionary one to support the forces already there in case of any event.

Of equally serious portent was the report late in the day that two German merchant ships were about to arrive at Puerto Mexico with large supplies of arms and ammunition for Huerta. It was realized that this, if true, would prevent an incident similar to the arrival of the Ypiranga at Vera Cruz with her cargo of munitions which led immediately to the American occupation of that port.

It is also reported that the mediators of the United States had broken the armistice by landing additional troops at Vera Cruz, were considered by the cabinet and later Secretary Bryan announced that the reply of this government stated that no aggressive steps had been taken by the United States forces and that nothing had been done in violation of the suspension of hostilities.

The American reply was delivered to the mediators late today. The mediators themselves also took the view of the question raised by Huerta over the observance of the armistice that it could be cleared away and that Huerta could be convinced that the United States had not violated in April at least the armistice which had been agreed upon.

The cabinet meeting brought out a general discussion of the Mexican situation. It was said after the meeting that the matter of troop movements had previously been left with the war department and there was little doubt as to the sending of additional forces wholly for precautionary purposes. It also became known in this connection that inquiries had been made of the governors of states to ascertain the condition of the national guards and when they would be prepared for active service if conditions required. This again is a precautionary measure.

The indications are that if national guards were called upon they would be used on the Texas border, relieving regulars there who would then be available for reinforcing the troops now in Vera Cruz.

The discussion of reinforcing General Funston at Vera Cruz has developed a marked difference of opinion in the cabinet. Some of the members take the view that the mediation negotiations might be embarrassed by such an act while others believe it is to be a necessary precaution against a sudden attack on the American forces stretched along the railroad to the water works.

Washington, May 8.—It has been learned on high authority that the War Department had under consideration today early and adequate reinforcement of the command of Gen. Funston at Vera Cruz to carry out any movement that might be necessary into the interior of Mexico.

The question of placing a large force of Americans in Vera Cruz that would be strong enough to defend that port against any attack, or undertake a possible campaign against Mexico City, was later laid before the President and his cabinet by Sec. of War Garrison.

A long cipher telegram from Gen. Funston at Vera Cruz that arrived the General Staff of the Army late in the afternoon, that did not break up until nearly midnight was placed before the President and his cabinet by Sec. Garrison.

General Staff in Conference

War Department officials, it was stated, decided that reinforcements were needed at Vera Cruz, at the conference of Sec. Garrison and the General Staff late last night, after going over the entire military situation at Vera Cruz and other points in Mexico.

Sec. Garrison called the conference after a cipher telegram from Vera Cruz had been delivered to him at the White House, where he was attending the wedding of the President's daughter. He left the festivities hurriedly and summoned his staff to the War Department.

Two Tampico Oil Wells Fired

Among dispatches received was one which reported the firing of two oil wells at Tampico. The profraction of American lives and property, it was stated, was the prime motive behind the determination of Army and Navy officials that the American forces in Mexico should be reinforced.

Sec. Garrison declined to discuss

FLOWER GARDEN DESTROYED

Boys Wreck Tulip Beds in the Yard of Eldredge Residence.

The worst act of vandalism that the police have been called on to investigate for many days, is that committed by boys in the garden of the J. F. Eldredge residence on Miller avenue. On Friday morning the man in charge of the grounds found just 150 beautiful tulips broken off and thrown about in all directions. Not one had been removed from the ground which showed plainly that it was a case of malicious mischief on the part of those guilty of such an act.

Officer Shannon was called on the case and is making good headway in his work.

D. B. C. GOING TO ROCHESTER.

The Dearing Bicycle Club will take a ride to Rochester, N. H., on Sunday. All the boys expect to have a pleasant day and a good time. They will start at 9 o'clock a. m. Don't forget your pennants!

SIGNS ORDER FOR RELEASE OF THAW

Case Transferred to the Supreme Court by Judge Aldrich--Petition for Bail to Be Made.

Concord, N. H., May 8.—The State of New York filed at 3 this afternoon its appeal from the decision of Judge Aldrich of the United States District Court for the District of New Hampshire, sustaining the petition of Harry K. Thaw for a writ of habeas corpus and the case was immediately transferred to the United States Supreme Court.

The petition for an appeal was presented by Bernard Jacobs of Lancaster, the New Hampshire representative of William Travels Jerome in the proceeding, and Thaw was represented by several of his counsel.

There was little of formality in the proceedings Judge Aldrich signed the order for the release of Thaw from custody under his decision.

New York's Petition for Appeal

Mr. Jacobs then presented the petition of New York for an appeal to the United States Supreme Court, and this was granted by Judge Aldrich. Appended to the petition was the following assignment of errors, in which it is alleged the court erred:

First—in sustaining the writ of habeas corpus and discharging the petitioner, Harry Kendall Thaw, from custody under the extradition warrant issued by the Governor of the State of New Hampshire.

Second—in holding that the petitioner, Harry Kendall Thaw, was not substantially charged with a crime under Article 1, Section 2, Paragraph 2 of the Constitution of the United States.

Third—in holding that the petitioner, Harry Kendall Thaw, was not a fugitive from justice under Article 1, Section 2, Paragraph 2 of the Constitution of the United States.

Fourth—in holding that the process under which the petitioner, Harry Kendall Thaw, was held was not the process of law under Article 1, Section 2, Paragraph 2 of the Constitution of the United States.

Fifth—in holding that the warrant of extradition issued by the Governor of the State of New Hampshire was illegal, invalid and unwarranted under Article 1, Section 2, Paragraph 2 of the Constitution of the United States.

Sixth—in holding that upon the whole record in this case does not come within the provisions of the Constitution of the United States relating to extradition.

"Writ Should Have Been Dismissed." Seventh—in not holding that the petitioner, Harry Kendall Thaw, was legally in custody under the warrant of extradition issued by the Governor of the State of New Hampshire.

Eighth—in not dismissing the writ of habeas corpus and in not remanding the petitioner, Harry Kendall Thaw, to the proper custody for extradition to the State of New York.

Ninth—because upon the whole record the writ of habeas corpus should have been dismissed the warrant of the Governor of the State of New Hampshire sustained and the petitioner, Harry Kendall Thaw, remanded to the proper custody for extradition to the State of New York.

Wherefore said respondent prays that the order, decree and judgment sustaining said writ of habeas corpus and discharging the petitioner herein, Harry Kendall Thaw, be reviewed, and reversed; that said writ of habeas corpus be dismissed and that said petitioner be remanded to the custody of the said Holman A. Drew, sheriff of Grafton County, New Hampshire, under the aforesaid warrant of the Governor of the State of New Hampshire for extradition to the State of New York.

With the petition was filed a bond by the State of New York to meet all costs accruing by reason of the prosecution of the appeal and there was a lively discussion as to the record of the case, which will also have to be filed with the court.

The record was prepared to the last hearing in the case and the final opinion of Judge Aldrich by Rufus D. Hodgman, the clerk of the court. From that point the work has been carried on by Thaw at his own expense and he is the only person connected with the case who has a complete record of the proceedings. A printed volume of some 200 pages, New York must have the record, and according to counsel for the fugitive the only way Jerome can get it for filing is by some arrangement with Thaw under which New York will reimburse him for the cost.

May Continue Effort to Bail Thaw.

With the appeal filed and allowed it is probable that Thaw's counsel will soon take up the matter of bail with Judge Holmes of the Supreme Court. While Judge Aldrich in his opinion, declared he had a right to admit the fugitive to bail, he failed to do so on the ground that Thaw was to pass out from under his jurisdiction and it was only right that that matter should be determined by the court to which custody he was transferred. A move may be made to have Judge Aldrich reconsider, but at this time such a move seems unlikely.

Pending the disposition of the appeal, or until such time as bail may be allowed, Thaw will remain in his present custody at the Eagle Hotel, where he is finding his detention very tedious since the weather became warm and pleasant. He is indulging in long walks daily with his keepers, and on Tuesday went to Warner by train and from that point made the ascent of Mt. Kearsarge. He also tried several trout streams in that locality and had good luck.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE NOTES

(From the Local Branch)

The Anti-Suffrage mass meeting at Fenwick Hall on April 28th was attended by such throngs that although the hall itself and the overflow meeting space were packed to the doors, many hundreds standing, as many were turned away as gained entrance. The Hon. Curtis Child, ex-governor of Massachusetts and recent ambassador to Russia, presided. Miss Marguerite Dorman, secretary of the New York Anti-Suffrage Wage Earners League, spoke most effectively from the working girls point of view. Mrs. A. J. George was listened to with the deepest interest, especially when she spoke of how suffragists were lessening the amount of good women might accomplish for social welfare by dividing them into opposing factions instead of allowing them all to work together. She was frequently interrupted by bursts of applause. Hon. John A. Matthews of New Jersey gave a rousing political speech which made many converts among the men and brought them in gratifying numbers to the anti-suffrage shop next day to express their interest and enthusiasm.

There were 1,100,000 women in Massachusetts on May 2 who were not marching in street parades. There were in Massachusetts between six and seven thousand people who were willing to march or ride for suffrage. This included men women and children black and white native and foreign and many chauffeurs and represented the result of months of labor by the suffragists all over the state.

Two things which struck the observer on May 2nd were the lack of enthusiasm among the spectators of the suffrage parade and the great number of men in the business part of the town who were wearing red noses.

The suffragist leaders in England, like those in America are constantly assailing their followers that suffrage is "bound to come" and is "almost here"; but Lady Byron, a British suffragist who is closely in touch with prominent politicians frankly says:

"The leaders of neither political party are sufficiently interested in votes for women to make women suffrage a government measure, so it is only foolish for us to throw dust in our own eyes by trying to believe we shall soon get a thing which we know in our heart of hearts is still very far from realization."

Mr. Nathan Strass who has done such wonderful work in procuring pure milk for babies in New York, writing to the Los Angeles Times of March 24th, 1914 says:

"Other states and countries have adapted wise and judicious laws to prevent the spread of disease animals and the sale of milk from infected cows. California is one of the few states which still permits the sale of milk from tubercular cows."

The women of California have had the chance to vote on the milk question for over two years and have not done so. How is it that they have not shown their duty by a mere man from New York, a man suffrage state, where pure milk laws have been passed by men?

Springfield, the capital of Illinois, went wet at the recent elections, 4800 women voted for saloons, 4300 against. Lansing, the capital of Michigan, with only men voting, went dry.

The Seattle school board has unanimously voted down a petition from the school teachers asking for an increase in pay. It did so because a woman's club protested against the increase. Obviously on the question of women's wages there is no more solidarity among women than among men.

It is a significant fact that the only woman's organization in the country that issues and advertises feminist literature is the National Woman's Suffrage Association and its auxiliaries.

Margaret Swift, an ardent feminist believes feminism should and will bring about free love. She says:

"The feminist's distinctive quality in that she will insist on such a shaking up of dry social bones that each carry on her life without becoming the married appendix of a man, and can do this without sacrificing the claims of sex, love and motherhood. A high relation between man and woman is impossible in marriage and the feminist has discovered it."

A recent contribution to the feminist literature of America is the volume "Women as World Builders," by Floyd Dell. He undertakes to answer this question, "What will the world be like if women become the dominant force in it?" He chooses the typical feminists Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Mrs. Pankhurst, Miss Jane Addams, Emma Goldman, Isadora Duncan, Ellen Key, Margaret Robbins, and Dora Marsden. Miss Addams as a leader, she ranks rather low and

The fire which destroyed the Dartmouth Press building at an early hour yesterday morning has not destroyed the spirit which animated The Dartmouth, and with this issue the paper rises from the flames without the loss of a single number. For the ability to do this, and to set up the paper on an out of town press, the management have to thank both the Haverhill fire department and the Undergraduate Fire Squad, for their efficient work in saving enough of the records of the paper to make it possible to continue publication.

To each and every man who aided in saving the records and accounts of the paper the management testifies its debt of gratitude; and to mention by name J. H. Day of this city, J. W. Babcock and B. V. Bixby of this city, as well as the members of the board who were present is but a poor recognition of their work in salvage. Moreover, to the entire force of the paper who worked untiringly all day yesterday to set out this edition, to editors and helpers alike, the management extends its thanks for labor, and its appreciation that at the test of a catastrophe the organization of the paper was able to meet the demands made on it.

The publication of the paper will continue under the best conditions that printing outside of Haverhill allows, and the indulgence of the subscribers is expected for any irregularities in form or make-up, and the cooperation of all contributors to the next few editions is desired to get all material in at a nearly hour of being sent to Lebanon.—The Dartmouth.

HON. MOSES A. SAFFORD OF KITTERY PASSES AWAY

The death of Hon. Moses Atwood Safford, a leading member of the York County bar, and one of Kittery's most prominent and useful residents, occurred at 8 o'clock Friday evening, as the result of a relapse of sickness, his age being 80 years, 7 months and 10 days.

Mr. Safford had been in ill health for several months.

The death of Mr. Safford removes one of the substantial men of the community, and his passing away makes a vacancy among the citizens of Kittery that is regretted exceedingly, for no town can afford to part with such a man as he was. He leaves one son and one daughter, who are mentioned in the following sketch, and one brother, John S. Safford of Kittery Point. He was also a brother of the late Edward F. Safford, proprietor of the Peppercorn hotel at Kittery Point.

Moses Atwood Safford was born at Kittery Point, September 28th, 1833, the son of Edward D. and Mary (Leaves) Safford. The last school which he attended was the New Hampton Institute, at New Hampton, Belknap County, N. H. After finishing his course of study there he read law with the late Stillman B. Allen of Kittery, and was admitted to the bar in 1861. On the breaking out of the Civil War he laid aside the work of his profession for a while in order to answer the call of the Government for men, and November 27th, 1861, entered the United States naval service. Receiving his discharge in 1865, he returned home and took up the practice of law, in which he was eminently successful.

He was registrar of probate from 1877 to 1885, and has filled many offices of public trust. He has served his town as selectman, town agent, and superintendent of schools. As chairman of the building committee of the Rice Public Library he devoted four years in the effort to obtain for the town a library building which should give to its inhabitants all the advantages contemplated by the donor of the fund for its support. In this he was highly successful in the year 1889. His devotion to duty as the president of the board of trustees was enhanced by the fact that it was regarded by him as his most cherished life's work, to develop a library to which his town can point with pride.

Mr. Safford was a man of broad culture and an important member of the Maine Historical Society, taking great interest in the colonial history of his native state and town, on which he was probably the best informed man in the county. His life was such as to win the highest respect of his fellow townsmen; and he was a man of marked influence in the community, whose welfare he was ever willing to devote his energies.

On November 23, 1886 he was married to Catherine C. Bellamy, a daughter of John Hiley Bellamy. Her father died when a young man. Her step-father was the late Hon. Charles G. Bellamy, a carpenter, contractor and builder, who was born January 3, 1811, and who at the time of his death was the oldest resident of Kittery.

The union of Mr. and Mrs. Safford was blessed by three children, Moses Victor Safford, M. D., who graduated from Dartmouth College in the class of 1890, and after studying medicine was for a number of years a specialist in New York City, and is now United States Medical Inspector of Immigration for the port of Boston; Mary Bellamy Safford, a young woman who has contributed to so many efforts towards the town's improvement; and the late Howard Hart Safford, whose sudden death from peritonitis occurred here some years ago. He was graduated from Dartmouth in the class of 1894, was president of the class, and later graduated from the Boston University law school, and at the time of his death was a successful and promising young lawyer in Boston.

Mr. Safford was a member of Naval Lodge, No. 184, A. F. and A. M. of Kittery, and a past commander of Edward G. Parker Post, No. 1, G. A. R. The home of the family is on Wentworth street, near the Rice public library.

Mr. Safford was a republican, and was a man who cherished the principles of his party. In religious belief, he was a Universalist or a Unitarian. He was optimistic. His life was consistent; he was genial among men who appreciated something more than trifles; he was a deep lawyer, with a very large acquaintance, and had the management of many important estates and interests, which he always fulfilled with the utmost regard for the trust imposed in him.

He was a most entertaining speaker, a true orator, and commanded details with ease and happy application. At the celebration of the town's 250th anniversary, in 1897, he was the speaker at the exercises then held, and without a single note of memorandum, reviewed hundreds of the incidents of the town's history in a manner that left an impression with everyone who heard him.

For a number of years, the latter part of his life, Mr. Safford was a chief clerk at the navy yard, but resigned fully from the service a few years ago, and devoted his time mostly to probate practice and the settlement of estates. He was recognized as an authority on such matters.

In addition to the interests with which he was connected as an attorney, he was a director of the Portsmouth Savings Bank, and was clerk of the Piscataqua Navigation Company.

He was also responsible to a great degree for the organization of the Kittery Volunteer Fire Association, and was its president, for he was always willing to assist in any movement to help his community.

THE INCREASING STRENGTH OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

A correspondent in the New York Sun gives the following election results to show the increasing strength of the republican party:

In New Jersey, in the election for governor, James T. Fiebler was the democratic candidate, Edward B. Stokes was the republican candidate and Everett Colby was the candidate of the progressives. Mr. Colby was assisted by some of the most prominent men in the progressive party. Fiebler received 173,148 votes, Stokes 140,289 votes and Colby 41,132. The vote in 1912 was Roosevelt 145,410, Taft 88,833. The vote for Stokes made a republican gain of over 50,000.

In Pennsylvania the recent registration shows that in almost every section the progressive strength has fallen off between 60 per cent. and 80 per cent. In Philadelphia over 100,000 republicans registered and 14,000 progressives. In Pittsburgh, Armstrong, the republican candidate, won for mayor over Congressman Porter, the candidate supported by the progressives. Porter had the support of William Flinn, one of the cleverest and most resourceful politicians in the progressive party. In nearly every instance in Pennsylvania the republicans won, the progressives running a very bad third.

Maryland was one of the first states to elect a United States Senator under the constitutional amendment providing for a direct election. Blair Lee was the democratic nominee, Thomas Parran the republican and ex-United States Senator Wellington the progressive. Parran received a vote of 73,000 and Wellington 7,033. Roosevelt ran ahead of Taft in Maryland.

In California nearly 70,000 republicans enrolled and 45,000 progressives. It is practically conceded that at the next election a republican governor and United States Senator will be seated.

In Iowa in the second congressional district the vote for Hall, republican, was 10,608, and for Hanley, progressive, 8,718. In 1912 Mr. Roosevelt's vote in this district was 13,602 and Mr. Taft's 8,303.

Throughout the country it is the same story. The republicans have made great gains, the progressives show a great decrease.

The presidential vote for 1912 did not indicate the relative strength of the republican and the progressive parties; it represented the great personal popularity of Theodore Roosevelt and the idea that he had not been treated fairly at the Chicago convention.

As the elections have shown, the progressives are coming back to the republican party. Of course there are some men who for their own personal advancement will try to keep the breach wide open, but from all indications they will not be successful.

DEVELOPING THE HEIFER—1.

Prof. J. A. MCLEAN
Dept. Animal Husbandry Mass. State Agri. College.

Improvement in the dairy can be achieved only by raising and developing heifers into cows that are superior to their mothers. The proper selection of the sire is one of the greatest influences in the improvement of the herd, but of equal importance is the growing and developing of the young things after they are born, for the best bred calf may develop into a scrub cow if it receives scrub treatment.

Granting that the calf is born right, due care must be taken particularly during its first three months. For the first twenty-four hours, let it suck its mother. This is better for both the cow and the calf. After the first day remove the youngster from its mother and for at least ten days feed upon whole milk. If the calf is doing well at the end of that time skim milk may gradually be substituted for the whole milk, till by the end of three weeks the calf is entirely upon skim milk. As soon as the calf will begin to eat grain feed a mixture of bran, corn and crushed oats mixed in equal parts by weight, allowing it to have as much as it will clean up twice a day. The skim milk should be continued until six months of age, although the amount should never greatly exceed fifteen pounds per day.

Develop Digestive Capacity

At about six weeks of age calves generally begin to eat roughage, and it is very important to furnish them with as much roughage of excellent quality as they will eat, for hay or grass is necessary for the proper development of the calf. We want our dairy cows to have great digestive capacity; to get this they must begin early to eat good hay. There is no better hay than alfalfa, of high quality. Where it is not obtainable mixed clover hay or rowen will be found most excellent. To the above feeds add healthful conditions such as comfortable, moderately warm quarters, clean feed pails and feed troughs or buckets are absolutely essential and exercising opportunities and at the end of six months the heifer should have made an excellent start.

Most calves are dropped in the spring of the year; yet I believe better results are obtained if the heifer dropped in the early fall are kept for the herd, for calves dropped then are nearly six months old when grass comes and are then large enough to withstand flies and other summer troubles and can make the best use of the grass. Spring calves will do as well if kept in the stables during the first summer, for, like children, they are subject to slight disorders, which although not serious should not be neglected.

THE WATER SUPPLY PROBLEM

How Shall it Be Pumped and Stored?

Those who choose to live beyond the town water supply must devise their own water system, and this supply will come either from a stream, spring or a dug or driven well and will in all probability, have to be pumped to a supply tank for distribution. If there is a never failing stream on the property with a sufficient fall a hydroelectric run may be used and is, perhaps the most economical way of pumping for if properly installed it can be depended upon to do its own work continuously and with but little attention. The fall of water required to operate a run is from two feet upward, and it will push water to a distance of 600 feet and elevate it thirty feet for every foot of fall.

Having no stream, a driven well is safer to use than a shallow well (which draws its water from the upper strata of soil and may easily become contaminated), and a windmill will provide an inexpensive power requiring only an occasional oiling, painting and the wind to turn the fan, but as the latter is unreliable it is sure to provide a generous sized tank.

Different Kinds of Engines

There are several kinds of engines for pumping water. The hot air engine is built especially for such work and has no superior (except the electric pump where the current is cheap) and is economical to operate, the fuel being either coal or kerosene. Gasoline engines can, of course, be put to many different uses, among them pumping water. They come in all sizes and, like the gas engine, are economical to operate. On farms where a gasoline engine is in demand a portable one may be purchased and, when needed for pumping, hauled to the pump by a shaft and pulley. The pump in this case should be placed in a small house over the well.

The electric pump has the advantage of starting and stopping automatically—a decided point in its favor when used in connection with air pressure water storage tanks. There are four ways of storing water in general use; in tanks of wood, which are inexpensive, but should not be allowed to become empty or they will shrink; in steel or concrete tanks set on steel or concrete supports (the former must be kept painted and are expensive to erect, the latter are also expensive but last indefinitely; in reservoirs only used when there is a hill or to supplement a tank, and in air pressure tanks, which, when installed in the cellar with the pump attached, give little or no trouble and are inexpensive and convenient to maintain.

THE SUMMER RANGE

The Growing Pullet Appreciates Freedom

PROF. H. R. LEWIS

New Jersey Agri. Experiment Station
Of all the problems confronting poultrymen the successful rearing of growing stock is the most vital. The question is one of finding a continuous rapid development from hatching time to maturity.

Success depends upon giving growing pullets and cockerels ideal environmental conditions, such as an extended range, plenty of natural shade, fresh air houses and abundance of green, succulent food material in addition to a well balanced grain ration. Free range is ideal, being conducive to uniform and economical growth with food material in the form of grubs, insects and green grass. The more range given the birds the more sanitary their surroundings, for the droppings will be well distributed and will more quickly leach into the soil. When necessary to closely confine growing stock during the summer the area available should be divided into two runs and each alternately secured to green crops.

Shade Essential
Adequate shade is also essential, giving protection against the rays of the sun, and a growing bush or tree is the best, as more moisture is present than where artificial shelters of boards or burlap are used. The orchard is a good place to rear pullets, and the cornfield is another portion of the average farm which furnishes ideal range. Sunflowers, corn, castor beans and soy beans are some annuals which can well be planted for shade, and peach, apple and plum trees make excellent, permanent shade.

A constant supply of green food is necessary for the best development, and where birds are on free range there is usually plenty of greenward, though on restricted areas crops, such as peas and oats, buckwheat, soy beans, rye, vetch and crimson clover can be seeded to provide a continuous supply.

During hot summer nights all the protection which chicks need are cheap shelters, relatively new, open, and hence cool and well ventilated. Shaded roof shelters, open in front and both sides, with provision for confining birds against enemies, is all that is necessary, and a shelter 6 by 8 feet will house fifty pullets to maturity.

The food supply should be determined by the condition of the range. A well balanced dry mash, kept in large hoppers, supplemented by corn and wheat (equal parts), fed broadcast morning and night with plenty of fresh water are the essentials for continuous growth and early maturity.

WHAT DOES THE CROP NEED?

An Experiment Plot Furnishes the Answer

P. K. EDWARDS

One way of solving the many interesting and puzzling problems in the soil and plant kingdom is by an experiment plot. Here light may be obtained as to the natural peculiarities of soil, or the special effects of fertilizer on certain crops, or in what degree to supplement stable manure for fertilizer, or under what fixed conditions the ambitious garden lover may obtain the most gratifying results for flowers and vegetables. In starting this miniature farm, then, use subterranean stakes at the corners of the plot and mark them plainly 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, leaving a space of two feet between each two plots to prevent the plants on one plot from feeding on the other. Make each plot 6 by 24 feet and plant the same crop on all the different plots. Take winter potatoes, for example. On plot 1 spread 10 pounds of dried blood and 15 pounds acid phosphate mixed (where the amount used is so small it can be distributed more evenly by mixing it with its weight in earth); on plot 2 spread 7 1-2 pounds sulphate of potash and dried blood mixed; on plot 3 use no fertilizer; on plot 4 use 7 1-2 pounds potash and 15 pounds acid phosphate mixed; on plot 5 use 7 1-2 pounds potash, 15 pounds acid phosphate and 10 pounds dried blood, and on plot 6 use only stable manure. Take great care not to sow any fertilizer on the spaces between the plots, and after the fertilizer has been spread harrow the plots thoroughly lengthwise.

Comparing the Plots

The blank plot 3 must not in any way be overlooked or neglected, for with it are to be compared all the other plots in order to see just what have been the benefits derived from fertilizing. To make clear what such an experiment may teach, suppose, for instance, the yield on plot 1, where no fertilizer was applied, is represented by the number 100; the yield on plot 1-5, the number 160; on plot 2, 180; on 4, 140; on 5, 175. With these numbers it is proved each of the three fertilizers is beneficial, for were it otherwise the yield on plot 5, where all the fertilizers were used, would not have been greater than on plots 1, 2 and 4, on each of which only two fertilizers were used. It is always of importance to keep a notebook.

Mr. R. L. Walden, the printer, is running a 1914 Cadillac purchased of the local agent.

Time to Apply the Brakes.

A step suggested by the health commissioner of the city of New York should be of interest beyond the bounds of the metropolis, on the ground that in so many matters as goes New York, so goes the country. Anything that gains a foothold in New York is very apt in time to find its way to all parts of the country.

Therefore when the health commissioner of that city suggests that it would be well to have every one of its 5,000,000 residents undergo a physical examination once a year in the interest of the public health it is time for the people of New York and the rest of the country as well to heed the suggested innovation. Such examinations would be conducted for the discovery of communicable and degenerative diseases, in order that the public might be protected so far as possible against the former, while victims of the latter who are not aware of their condition could begin treatment in time to prevent serious results in many instances.

Of course, it would cost a great deal of money to do this, and large numbers of people who consider themselves well would be placed under the care of physicians. This would make work for an army of examiners and doctors, but the results would be worth more than the cost if in practice they corresponded to the theoretical benefits. But would they? That is the question. There are now 3,000 employees in the New York health department. Think what it would mean to have every one of the 5,000,000 inhabitants physically examined once a year, and then told what they must do to be saved.

This suggestion is apparently an outgrowth of the tendency and disposition in this country to multiply "bureaus." We are already heavily saddled with commissions whose business is to regulate practically all the affairs of life so far as the public is concerned, and even affairs that were once considered individual matters have been invaded to a considerable extent. If now people apparently in good health, and who have every reason to believe themselves so to be, are to be brought under official inspection and regulation, the time would seem to be approaching when the last vestige of individual liberty will be gone.

What the people of this country need today is the courage to say "hands off." They are bowing too meekly to fads of all descriptions, foisted upon them and enforced at the public expense, with results in many cases more detrimental than beneficial. It is time to apply the brakes.

The engineer of the New Haven railroad train that was wrecked in Connecticut last fall has been acquitted of manslaughter. And Charles S. Mellen, the former president of the road, who was charged with a similar offense in connection with a previous wreck, was not brought to trial. It would be better to deal properly with genuine manslaughter and murder cases, and not fool away time and money in efforts to build up technical cases and convict innocent men.

A rich San Francisco woman, now in Honolulu, recently received a divorce by wireless from her home city. But wireless was not necessary for her next marriage, she and the man who was waiting for the vacancy being near enough together to be married the same evening. If we have not already done so, we take the opportunity to remark that we are living in a somewhat rapid age.

"Sweet Marie" Ganz of New York has been sent to the workhouse for 60 days for "disorderly conduct," which consisted in repeated threats to shoot John D. Rockefeller, Jr. If that sort of thing is disorderly conduct, the carrying out of the threat would probably rise to the dignity of assault and battery.

The man who recently attempted to assassinate the mayor of New York has been adjudged insane and sent to Matteawan. And he will never escape from the institution as did young Mr. Thaw. Poor men don't do such things. They have to bow to the "majesty of the law" and stay put.

It is said that Connecticut is preparing to vigorously enforce the automobile laws. But that sort of talk comes from all parts of the country, and up to date there has been more legislation and more talk than vigor in enforcement. Less talk and more of the "real thing" would do a world of good.

The 100th anniversary of "The Star Spangled Banner" is to be celebrated next fall. Let it be hoped that in addition to waving "O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave" it will be found waving over a land at peace with all the world.

Police figures show that crime is increasing in Chicago in spite of the fact that the women of the city have the ballot. While that, of course, is not the cause of the increase, it is equally apparent that it is not a preventive.

Other nations are under the impression that the Chinese constitution grants the president of that "republic" very large powers.

BAY STATE LAWS ARE DENOUNCED

President Wood Would Like to Run Plants Out of State.

Boston, May 8.—If I could put wheels under our mills and run them out of the state, I should certainly do so," said William W. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company in an address before the Massachusetts Steel State Exchange today.

He criticized industrial legislation in this state. After saying that his company also had mills in New York and Vermont he declared that in neither of these states do their officers stand in the gateway with a club when you come round.

"Massachusetts," he said "is the least attractive state in New England to manufacture except Rhode Island. In Connecticut the 55 hour a week is the schedule of working hours, one hour more than the working hours in this state. That one hour means a loss to us of over $100,000 a year."

He termed the immigration law "high bound" because of the restrictions on the importation of skilled help and added, "We have to take help from among the crowd, which is drifting into Massachusetts which has made this state of our the most foreign in the Union. In Lawrence alone, they are speaking 46 different dialects today. They are less efficient as a result than that we could have obtained from the British Isles, if we had been allowed to bring them here."

CURRENT OPINION

South America Doesn't Like Our Playing Policeman.

As a nation we are exceedingly sensitive about the Monroe doctrine, the indefinite claims of which are always a source of possible international difficulty. The Monroe doctrine is a claim of much vagueness and many dangerous possibilities, a claim that should be exercised with much discretion until more keenly defined. It is exceedingly unpopular with all nations in South America, who naturally do not relish our playing the big policeman without their consent.

Nor do some of the great powers like our standing in the way of their colonial ambitions. As they become more thickly populated, the national land hunger will increase, and the overflow of the population may seek new fields in South America. Such a development is of much economic importance to the United States. Hence the necessity of the Monroe doctrine which will encourage and not discourage the commercial growth of that vast and rich territory.—By Henry Clews, New York Banker.

HONORARY PRESIDENT.

Mrs. May Wright Sewall Is Given Honors at Rome.

Mrs. May Wright Sewall, a prominent member of the Green Acre colony at Elliot, was re-elected honorary president of the International Council of Women at the session held in Rome on Friday. The Countess of Aberdeen was re-elected president.

Mrs. Sewall also addressed the assembly and thanked the council for her re-election as honorary president. BOYS IN A TREE ANNOY SCHOOL

A telephone message to the police from the Haven school Friday complained of boys annoying the teachers and scholars in one of the rooms of the building. Officer Philbrick went to the school and found the boys up in a tree close by the window. The teacher stated that they had been singing and otherwise distracting the pupils. The officer's warning will likely keep them from any further stunts of this kind.

TIME UP ON SUBSCRIPTIONS

Those Actually on the Way Will Be Received.

Washington, May 8.—The Reserve Bank Organization Committee announced tonight that while this was the last date on which subscriptions of stock to Federal Reserve banks could be made by banks that are to become members of the system, it would receive such subscriptions as actually were forwarded today, although they may not reach Washington for several days.

The penalty for not completing subscriptions is forfeiture of the charter of the bank.

The committee's mail today was heavy and included hundreds of subscriptions of stocks but no official statement of the receipts was made. The minimum capacity for each of the twelve reserve banks had not been subscribed yesterday.

President Wilson has under consideration the names of several men for the place on the Federal Reserve Board left vacant by the declination of Richard Olney to serve. Among those considered is Charles S. Hamlin, Asst. Secretary of the Treasury, now acting secretary.

Mr. Hamlin is from New England the section from which the selection is to be made.

While it is known the President has reached no definite decision as to the appointment, it was said authoritatively today that his choice would not add upon any member of his present cabinet.

Harry A. Wheeler of Chicago who has been offered a place on the Federal Reserve Board of the new banking system conferred with President Wilson today.

Mr. Wheeler said he wished to talk over matters with the President before making up his mind whether he would take the place. After the conference he said he had agreed to make a definite answer next week. It is believed he will accept.

WANTS SOME ACTION.

Senator Gallinger Appeals to Committee to Get a Move On.

Senator Gallinger has appeared before the committee on public buildings and appealed to them to hasten the needed repairs on the Federal building in Concord.

He urged that the attention of the supervising architect be called to the wisdom of giving needed relief to conditions like those existing in Concord, rather than expend all energy on the construction of new buildings.

Said Senator Gallinger:

"It is bad enough to have the construction of other buildings postponed year after year, but it is infinitely worse to have such conditions as exist in my home city where the public business is being carried on to the detriment of the government and the people. An appropriation to remedy the trouble was made months ago, but nothing has been done with it."

In the course of the discussion Senator Swanson, chairman explained that work in the office of the supervising architect was seven years behind owing to lack of appropriations to maintain a sufficient force. Senator Gallinger stated that he had no desire to criticize the committee and closed by a strong plea for immediate consideration of the needs of the Concord postoffice.

BECKER JURY IS COMPLETED

District Attorney Whitman Addresses Jury When Trial Starts.

New York, May 8.—The jury which will determine whether Charles Becker, the former police lieutenant and head of the "Strong Arm Squad," conceived the plot that resulted in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was completed late today. An adjournment was promptly taken until 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, when District Attorney Whitman will address the jury, charging that Becker actually was the "brains" of the conspiracy.

The first witness will probably be placed upon the stand early in the forenoon. The jury, as finally completed, is as follows:

P. Meredith Blagden, (foreman), 28, bond merchant; James M. Faust, 29, real estate dealer; Thomas W. Edwards, 30, chemist; Edward E. Van Eman, 35, dry goods salesman; Paul D. Cumors, 36, bond salesman; Robert Baxter, 30, clerk; Dio L. Holbrook, 48, marine engineer; Philip Lott, 35, civil engineer; Walter Goodyear, 54, book publisher; Gilbert Shaul, 32, manufacturer; Ephraim Plummer, 68, retired salesman; Wilbur F. Rawlins, 35, salesman.

After 121 talesmen had been examined during the forenoon and afternoon sessions the jury was completed shortly before 4 o'clock, when Shaul took the twelfth seat in the box. Directly after his selection, however Justice Seabury retired to his chambers. There he called before him District Attorney Whitman and Martin T. Mantou, of Becker's counsel.

Pitcher Johnson of Reds Can't Play With Feds Till Court Acts on Case

GEORGE H. JOHNSON

Bearing on the motion to dissolve the injunction to restrain George H. Johnson, pitcher, who jumped to the Kansas City Federals from the Cincinnati baseball club will be held on Thursday, May 14. The injunction which was obtained by the Cincinnati club forbade Johnson from playing with any baseball organization. The alleged misrepresentations of the president of the Cincinnati club in predelicting the early break up of the Federal league was held by Johnson as making the contract of no effect. Contradicting the Cincinnati club, Johnson said he was given only $250 advance money instead of $750 and said that he has returned to the club the $377.60 due it when he left it to join the Kansas City Federals.

conference, which lasted about 15 minutes, was not revealed, but when the district attorney and Mr. Mantou emerged from the chambers, jurors selected as No. 5 and No. 8, A. V. Farley and W. H. Smith, were called in. Soon Justice Seabury returned to the bench and announced that the two jurors had been excused upon their own application.

No reflection, said the court, was to be cast upon either of the men. The work of examining talesmen was again resumed and Plummer was quickly selected. Rawlins was picked a few minutes before the time set for closing.

No mention was made during the day of the reported move to have W. Bourke Cockran, of counsel for Becker, adjudged guilty of contempt of court for a remark attributed to him. He had been quoted in the newspapers as saying: "This is not a trial; it is an assassination." Several affidavits from newspaper men who swore they heard Cockran say this, are in the hands of the district attorney.

It was intimated at the district attorney's office tonight, however, that the affidavits which it is said were collected at the direction of Justice Seabury, would be presented to the court in the morning. Cockran has not been in court since he made the alleged remark. He added at the time that he was "through with the case," it is said.

The first witness on the stand tomorrow will probably be William J. Pile, a policeman, who was at the Metropole at the time Rosenthal was shot. He, as well as the next half dozen witnesses, will be used to establish the crime.

"Veteran's Night" at Wentworth Hall on Friday evening under the auspices of Kittery Grange drew a crowded house despite the heavy rain. A large number of tickets had been sold and together with the sale of cake, candy and ice cream a goodly sum was realized, one half of which will go into the Grange treasury, and the other for a worthy cause. The program as printed in Friday's column was carried out as far as possible, but several changes were necessary.

The response to the address of welcome was given by Captain Joseph H. Jones of Portsmouth, a Spanish dance by Miss McWilliams, and remarks by Colonel Jethro H. Sweet and Commander Stadelhof of the Dover Post were added features, while several addresses were omitted owing to the non-appearance of the speakers. Another addition to the program was the presentation to the Master, Aaron H. Brackett, by Mr. James R. Philbeck of a handsome silver ring from the members in recognition of her 52nd birthday anniversary which coincided with the date set for the entertainment of the veterans, and as a token of their esteem for him and appreciation for his untiring labors in behalf of the organization.

The hall had been very prettily decorated with flags and red, white and blue paper and special seats had been reserved for the veterans. All members on the program were splendidly given, but special mention should be made of the songs and marches by the girls' chorus and the boys' chorus, and the old-time favorite "Ruben and Stachel" by the little Misses McWilliams. The committee in charge have every reason to be well pleased with their efforts to make the entertainment a success.

THE MONTANA WILL ARRIVE ON SUNDAY WITH DEAD FROM VERA CRUZ

Washington, May 8.—The armored cruiser Montana, bearing the bodies of the 17 sailors and marines killed during the occupation of Vera Cruz, is due to arrive in New York Harbor about 1 Sunday afternoon.

Memorial services at which President Wilson will voice the tribute of the Nation, will begin at the New York navy yard at 11 Monday morning. Arrangements for the services have not finally been completed early today, but it was announced that they would be brief and simple.

The clergymen participating will be Chaplain W. G. Caspard of Annapolis, Ralph Wise of New York, and Rev. John P. Chabwick, who was chaplain of the battleship Maine when she was blown up in Havana Harbor.

The bodies will be landed at the Battery Sunday afternoon, where they will be placed on caissons and be in state until Monday morning. At 9 Monday a procession under military and other escort, provided by the City of New York, will march to the City Hall and thence across Brooklyn Bridge to the navy yard.

President Wilson will leave Washington by train Sunday night.

By unanimous vote the Senate today adopted the House resolution for the appointment of a joint committee of seven Senators and 21 Representatives to represent Congress at the funeral exercises Monday at Brooklyn for the men of the Navy and Marine Corps who lost their lives at Vera Cruz.

"DON'T WORRY, GET TO WORK," SAYS I. T. BUSH.

Points Out Wilson's Achievements, and Deprecates Pessimistic Viewpoint.

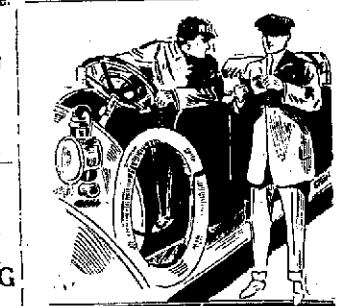

President Irving T. Bush, of the Bush Terminal Company, whose connection with more than 200 big manufacturing firms in his South Brooklyn loft buildings gives him a splendid opportunity to keep in touch with the business situation throughout the country, views the commercial future optimistically. "Get to work and stop worrying," he says in an interview which caused much favorable comment in financial circles.

"It seems necessary for most people to have something to worry about," said the Terminal President, "and one of the most popular worries is about things in Washington. We hear every day some one say, 'If Washington would only leave us alone, business would be all right,' or 'Thank God, the war will at least give Congress something to think about besides business investigations.' It never seems to occur to the fellow who worries that his Washington troubles may be largely a state of his own mind. We worried all last spring because of tariff legislation which we wanted, voted for and got. The job was done quickly and intelligently, and I don't hear many kicks. At least, we have got what most of us thought we wanted. Then we started in to worry about currency legislation. Some of us were sure the banks would all be put out of business and industry paralyzed. That job was done—and it needed doing—and we find that instead of putting the banks out of business they have accepted the new system as a helpful piece of machinery, which will enable them to serve business. Since then we have worried about how to divide the country into banking districts, worried because the President would not go to war and then because he did.

"During the time of Roosevelt and Taft, we worried because the Attorney General attacked this business and that, without any definite rules, and now we are worrying because Mr. Wilson proposes that Congress create a board of umpires to formulate rules by which we may play the game. A few years ago 'worry conventions' were called to protest against an increase in freight rates, and now we are all worrying for fear the rates will not be increased. If there be any disguised blessing in war, it is not that it will take the minds in Washington off business, but that it may take the minds of business of Washington.

"Let's remember we are patriotic Americans and stop worrying. The man who has reformed the tariff, reorganized our currency and banking laws, and put the Mexican situation, which he inherited—in a fair way to be solved peacefully by a congress of American nations, deserves support. We don't hear anything about the crops because there is nothing to worry about there. They are growing, and bid fair to be unusual. A rate decision is coming and money is cheap. Let's go to work."

There was an especially high run of tides on Friday night, the east wind combined with the full of the moon made a combination which drove the tide several feet above normal. No great damage was done other than flooding of cellars etc.

William F. Harrington of Manchester, General Manager of the Portsmouth Brewing Company, was here on business on Friday.

TRUTH TRIUMPHS

Portsmouth Citizens Testify for the Public Benefit

A truthful statement of a Portsmouth citizen given in his own words should convince the most skeptical about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, urinary disorders or any form of kidney trouble, use a tested kidney medicine.

Portsmouth citizen tells of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Could you demand more convincing proof of merit?

Mrs. John M. Smart, 172 Gates St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "Eight or nine years ago I began to suffer from kidney trouble. I had sharp pains in the small of my back, which at times changed to a dull, grinding ache. I exerted myself in my sufferings were more severe. I felt tired nearly all the time and had but little energy. Having reason to believe that my kidneys were disordered, I began trying various remedies, but without success until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Philbrick's Pharmacy. Two boxes improved my condition in every way."

Price, 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Smart had, Foster-McAllister Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

WILL TAKE BRIDE.

Ensign King Will Marry Miss Fernald at Newburyport Tonight.

Ensign James Leslie King of the battleship Rhode Island, a Newburyport man, and Miss Helen Fernald, a Boston University student, will be married tonight at the home of her parents in Newburyport.

The wedding was set for June after Miss Fernald should have taken her degree there next month. She is assigned to a place in the Commencement and Class Day programs, and is also one of the committee for the spread of the Sigma Kappa Society.

When orders were received that the Rhode Island was to sail not later than May 23 for Mexico the young couple decided to be married at once. Only the immediate relatives will be present at the ceremony.

As the rearming of the Rhode Island with an entire new main battery of 12 inch and 8 inch guns requires the presence of a ferry officer, Ensign King could secure only a limited leave of absence and is under orders to report back Tuesday morning.

Miss Fernald will complete her course at Boston University and take her degree with her class June 3. She expects to return to college next Wednesday.

Miss Fernald and Ensign King have been friends since childhood and were school chums until he went to the naval academy in 1908.

WHAT CO-OPERATION MEANS

It means the pulling together of two or more interests for a common purpose.

When manufacturer and dealer pull together, the purpose is increased sales.

The great meeting-ground for this work is the advertising columns of local newspapers like The Herald.

The advertising appeals directly to the buying public in the dealer's city and the name and the product of the manufacturer derive a great benefit through association with the dealer's local prestige.

Co-operative advertising in the newspapers is growing more and more in favor because it pays.

WALKING AROUND THE BORDER

Four Young Men Who Are on a Journey of 14,000 Miles
Arrive HereFour young men dressed in red sweaters, blue trousers, canvas leggings and red and blue toques, attracted much curiosity as they marched abreast up Middle street, at 11.30 this morning.These gentlemen were not the vanguard of an invading enemy, but four New Yorkers on a three years' hike around the border of the United States.
They left New York city April 15, stopping one day in New Haven, one in New London, one in Westerly, R. I., one in Providence, and three days in Boston. From Boston the boys hiked to Lynn, Salem and then to Haverhill.
They hiked from Haverhill to Hampton yesterday in a pouring rain.The remainder of the journey from Hampton to Portsmouth was made this morning. Each man carries a haversack and blanket weighing 35 pounds.
The mascot of the party, Prince, a black and tan spaniel, appears to be enjoying the journey as much as his companions.The expenses of the party are covered by selling postcards along the way. A friend of the quartet, Mr.
Joseph Ravaglia, of 254 Market street, will entertain them during their sojourn in this city. The boys leave tomorrow for Kennebunk, thence to Portland, expecting to reach there
Monday afternoon.They are prepared to camp along the way at any point in case they should not reach a village at nightfall.
The routine of the trip is: New York City, up the coast to Calais, thence northwestward around the northern part of Maine, then westward along the Canadian border to the Pacific, southward from Seattle, down the west coast to the Mexican border, along the Rio Grande, and Gulf of Mexico to Key West, Fla., thence up the Atlantic coast to New York City.
The trip will consume nearly three and one-half years, and 14,000 miles will have to be travelled.
